Chief Deputy Clerk

NOTICE

Effective January 3, 2005, visitors to the Federal Courthouse and the Pastore Building must be prepared to present a photo ID (e.g., driver's license) in order to access either building. The only exception is the Postal Service area located in the lobby of the Pastore Building.

This is part of a "100% security check" directive issued by the United States Marshal Service to all of its field offices, and is currently enforced in federal courthouses throughout the country. Unfortunately, federal courthouses are considered security targets requiring a higher level of security than is found in most public buildings.

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation.
